Michelson Lumber Co. Offers State Choice Site on Houghton Lake

The Nels Michelson Lumber Company has made a written offer to the State Conservation department to donate to the state, land for a state park on North Bay, Houghton Lake, north of M-55. The offer provides that the donor will give the state not less than forty acres of land, with a frontage of not less than eighty rods, on Hough-

Some people have favored a park just where M-55 turns west toward Lake City, on the shore of Houghton Lake, but there are some objections to this as the grounds are not suited to the purpose. But there are many wooded pieces of shore line farther north, that will make lovely parks, and some of these are likely to find a well and neglected to use curbing favor when the park authorities come to look them over.

This generous offer fills a want that has been many times expressed, for a public camp ground on Houghton at shoveling the dirt into a pail while

At present there is no place along the shore that the public can call its caved in and with tremendous force cwn, and the campers are only there on sufferance from the land owners on sufferance from the land owners, and the camping spots may be closed at any time. With a lake the size of Houghton, the camper ought to have a place he can call his own, that cannot be taken from h.m. UNIFORM LAWS NATIONAL NEED

N. W. MacChesney Warns Against Enroachment on State's Rights.

Detroit, Mich.-Col. Nathan William MacChesney of Chicago, warned a convention of national commissioners on uniform state laws, holding their convention here, that unless the various states voluntarily make their own laws uniform along progressive lines there will be a constantly increasing and determined effort to have congress enact general laws on subjects of the country's general concern, thus periling the nation's fundamental denocracy

Colonel MacChesney, who is president of the national conference of commissioners, warned against the growing encroachment of the federal sovernment on state's rights and quoted President Coolidge to the effect that this encroachment is due to the fact that the states have not discharged their full duties. Mr. Mac Chesney declared that unless the states meet their responsibilities through uniform state laws they must lose still further their prestige and power.

Discussing the need for a philosophy of law, Mr. MacChesney said: "With age, growth of population and ac-cumulation of wealth, a general government is sure to acquire immense power, and if with this is united the daily administration of affairs close to the people, the people themselves be come habitually accustomed to government interference, and consequently not only in the matter of law to enforced but in opinions on all subjects accept from the central power the line of conduct to be followed, desired acts to be achieved, and the methods by which they are to be accomplished."

Lawson, Publisher, Leaves $2,505,000 to Charities

Chicago.-Under the will of the late Victor F. Lawson, which was filed for probate Tuesday, the Chicago Daily News, principal asset of the Lawson estate, passes to the control of the Illinois Merchants' Trust company, which is given full power of management, including power to sell the newspaper.

Specific bequests of $4,775,000 are made under the terms of the will, and of this sum $2,505,000 is apportioned for benevolent purposes. The biggest bequests are left to the Chicago Congregational Mission and Extension so-ciety, the Theological Seminary and the Young Men's Christian association. These total practically three-quarters of the entire estate. The other one-quarter of the residuary estate is left to Iver N. Lawson, a brother of the late publisher, who also was left $200,-000 and the income from a trust fund of $300,000. Relatives, friends, and employees also share in the estate.

8 KILLED, 11 INJURED WHEN GUN EXPLODES

Chicago Soldiers Victims of Explosion of Trench Mortar at Camp Grant.

Camp Graint, Ili.—Explosion of a Stokes trench mortar on the Camp Grant drill ground during firing prac-tice killed eight negro soldiers of the Eighth Illinois infantry and injured cieven others. The dead, all of Obleago, are Captalu Osceola A, Browning, command ing the howitzer company, Corporal Henry Williams, and Privates Anderson, Delmes Campbell, Herbert Durant, Charlie Wright, Todd Mosely, und Elmo Baynes.

All the wounded were taken to Rockford hospitals after receiving first-aid treatment at the camp. From witnesses of the tragedy azy story was gathered.

Standing near were two small boys, visitors with the regiment, Oswald Harris, son of Lieutenant Harris, and Harold Williams, a guest of Captain Browning. From them it was learned that the first time an attempt was made to fire one of the two mortars the propelling charge failed. On the next attempt, said the boys some of the men were told to remove the sand which filled the projectiles. In its place they inserted some of the cordite taken from the firing rings. It was this shell which was loaded into the mortar. Just what caused it to explode inside the barrel, throw ing fragments of the gun in every direction, is not yet known.

When the smoke drifted away, the dead and injured lay, in a shambles about their gun. The explosion followed by just few hours the injury of eleve civilians who were burned during moke bomb demonstration

REFERRING ONCE MORE TO THAT MONKEY BUSINESS

That man was never either a mon key or ape, and that assumptions to this effect are erroneous and foolish was the declaration of Dr. Charles Hill-Tout, of Vancouver, B. C., of the Royal Society of Canada, lecturer and author, who spoke to the naturalist division of the American Association ably both ape and man came from some former ancestor in the phylo genitic series farther back. It is true that we may say that man has apelike characteristics, but it is equally true that the ape has manlike characteristics which does not mean much unless interpreted correctly. In fact, nearly all living organisms have points of likeness.

Dr. Alexander Findley, professor of hemistry at the University of Aber deen, Scotland, who spoke at the clos ing meeting, said that those who find conflict between religion and science are neither good religionists nor good scientists. The two can never be antagonistic, he declared, and such controversies as that in Tennessee are due to ignorance and inability to coordinate the findings of modern cience with the universal scheme.

Wild Rose Makes

Dainty Confection Dog roses, sacred to Queen Alex-udra, which are now furnishing the most glorious floral feature of the edge rows in England, possess dietetic merits sadly neglected in these lays. Most country housewives know that many dainty preparations can be obtained from the hips of the wild rose, but it is les widely known that a preserve of the blossoms is also employed in village confectionery, as vell as among the north Germans. These flowers are still considered luxury by the Chinese, and Sir John Davis, describing a feast given to him at Shanghal, mentions a ragout of dog roses dressed whole. He disap-proved of the celestial and ambrosial dish, and therein differs from old John Gerarde, who affirms that wild roses are greatly to be desired as a culinary vegetable, "as well as for their virtues and goodness in taste, as also for their beautiful color."—London Post.

The Reverend Had a Little

Lamb! The pastor of a colored church in Tennessee was haled before the board of deacons on serious charges. It was alleged that although married he had been caught in the act of embracing a comely female member of the congregation, in the vestry room. The evidence against him appeared to be conclusive. Three pre sumably unbiased witnesses testified to the fact.

The accused was asked whether he had anything to say in his own defense. He answered at length and with eloquence. He led off by pointing out that the word "pastor" was a Latin word meaning "shepherd." Therefore, he properly was a shep-herd. He also called the attention of the court to the fact that in pictures and paintings and more frequently in stained-glass memorial windows the Master Himself was shown as a shepherd carrying a

Now then, he contended, it naturally followed that when he, as the shepherd, took a member of his flock in his arms, he merely was carrying out the scriptural example.

In the minds of the deacons there seemed to be no way of controverting these arguments. Accordingly they went into executive session and drew up resolutions exonerating the preacher. But they added a proviso.

The concluding clause of the document, as read by the senior deacon before the congregation on the fol-lowing Sunday night, ran as follows: "And be it finally resolved dat in future, ef our beloved pastor should feel de desire stealin' over him to tek one of de lambs of de flock in his arms, dat he shall tek a ram

I know a Kentucky lawyer, a bril liant man, who outgrew the small town where he was reared and where he b gan the practice of his profession. An offer came to him to go to Chicago and become the attorney for a big lumber concern. He went, taking his family with him.

Always he had lived comfortably but in a simple fashion as was befitting his original environment. But he felt the position he now occupied called for more display than formerly. So he rented a large house and installed a staff of servants, including a colored butler. On his first day of service the butler came to his new master for instructions.

"Mister Blank," he asked in his most butlerfied manner, "does you desire me to wear my full dress suit ever night at dinner?'

"Well, no," said the Kentuckian, "on nights when we have company I'd like for you to lend it to me.
